Sink or Swim is highly flexible and can function as a demonstration, "directed play", or both. In all three situations, it needs at minimum a low level of supervision by nearby volunteers or museum staff because of the open tanks of water. The physical components remain the same in all situations, and consist of tanks of water and a selection of contrasting objects. These are listed below ...

Sink or Swim? uses original research to analyze how DC Water will pay for the Clean Rivers Project and how it could benefit District residents. We conclude that: “The DC Water Clean Rivers IAC is a highly regressive fee that will have a disproportionate impact on low-income residents and communities. The impact of the IAC measured as a share of 2013 property taxes” will be four ...
